From the Director

The library implemented several changes this year affecting both Main and the Branch as well as our organization.

We automated the scheduling of our public workstations for Internet access and other applications. By doing so we have been able to focus more public service hours on providing reference and reader's advisory service. The system's pay-for-printing feature has significantly reduced consumption of paper and printer consumables.

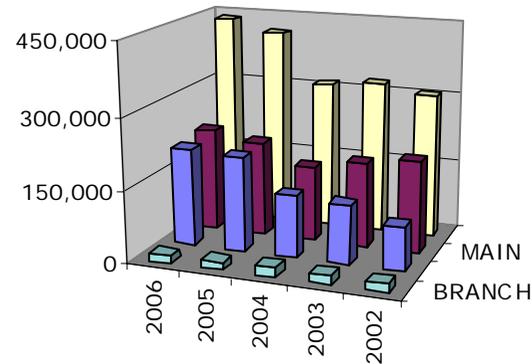

The library benefited from two bequests this year. The first was the final disbursement from the Dorcas Wolf estate. The second was from the estate of Annabelle Sumera. A portion of the latter was used to upgrade our meeting rooms by installing ceiling mounted projectors and data connections, as well as a stereo sound system in the Community Room. These meet the needs of presenters for library programs, groups who rent these spaces for meetings and training sessions, and our own staff training purposes.

Taking advantage of the former media center at the school district's Leggett Campus, we will be relocating our Branch library. The new full-service Branch library is slated to open in early 2007. Proceeds from the Sumera bequest were used to purchase additional shelving and casual seating for the Branch.

Our Friends group sponsored the purchase of a subscription to an online newsletter service. An increasing number of patrons are receiving monthly news from the library via email about programs, projects and new materials.

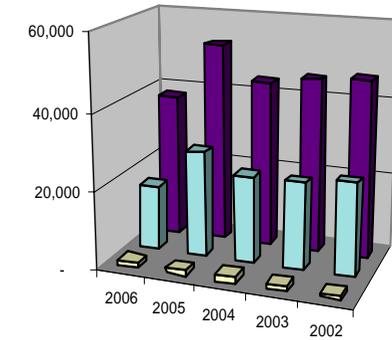

Staff reorganization created a Technical Services department to manage our collection of materials. New librarians in our Adults' Services Department have had an energizing influence evident in expanded program offerings and increased attendance. And, in the fall we hosted a student intern in the Wayne State University Library Science program.
